

ILLUSTRATED Evening Ledger

TUESDAY
September 12, 1916

PICTURESQUE HAPPENINGS IN THE NEWS OF THE DAY PORTRAYED BY THE CAMERA MAN

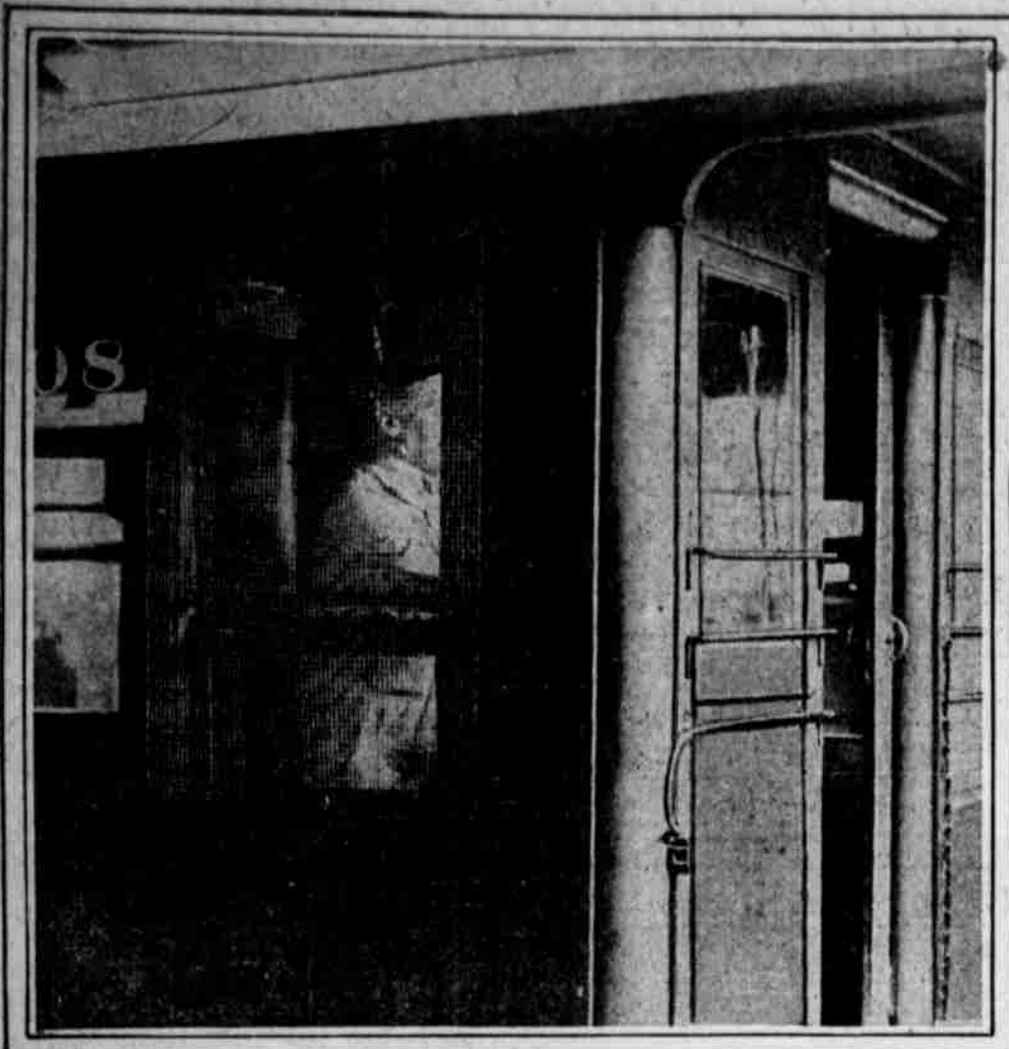

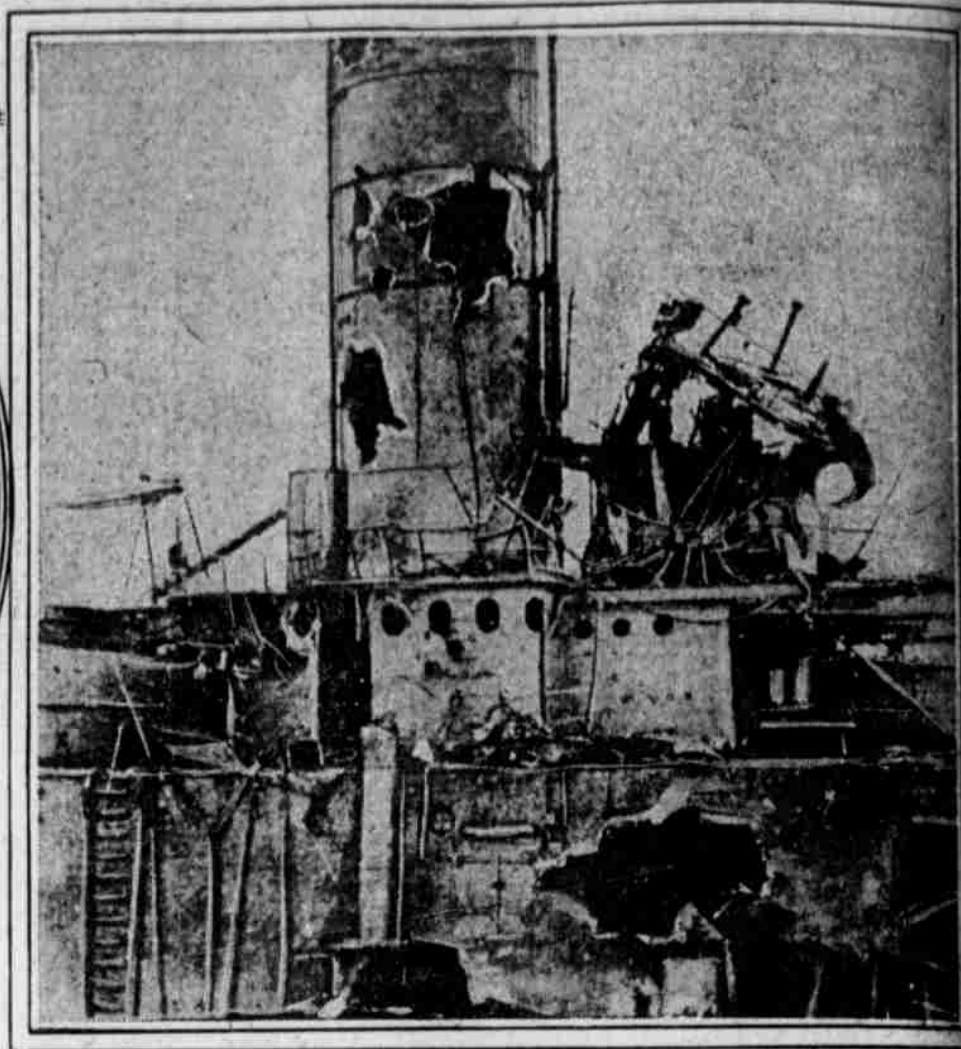

Photo from International Film Service.

NEW YORK TRACTION HEADS BELIEVE IN PREPAREDNESS
Officials of the Interborough Rapid Transit, whose employees are striking for recognition of the union, have provided the motorman's cabs with wire screens as protection from missiles hurled by strike sympathizers.

Copyright International Film Service.

THE COUNTRY'S "BOSS STRIKE-BREAKER" ON THE JOB
James T. Waddell, who claims the distinction of having broken more big strikes than all the other official strike busters put together, is the man on whom the New York "L" and subway officials have staked their all.

THIS WAS ONCE THE PRIDE OF THE NAVY

But by the time the naval rookies who have just returned from the citizens' training cruise got through battering the old battleship Texas during target practice in Chesapeake Bay, it looked more like a dismantled Verdun factory than a once great man-o-war.

Photo by Central News.

FASHION AGAIN REFLECTS THE MILITARY FEVER
This is the so-called "pug bonnet," built along the lines of a combined French and German helmet, minus the spike characteristic of the Teuton headgear.

ONE TYPE OF RUMANIA'S SEASONED FIGHTERS

The Rumanian cavalry did excellent service during the Balkan Wars and is expected to prove effective in the campaigns to come. The Italian uniform is closely followed.

Photo by Evening Ledger Staff Photographer.

ADVOCATES OF INLAND WATERWAYS IN SESSION
Scene at the opening of the ninth annual convention in the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel today. Mayor Almásy, of Richmond, Va., is responding to the address of welcome just made by Mayor Smith.

Photo by Ledger Photo Patrol.

BRACING WEATHER BRINGS OUT THRONGS OF PEDESTRIANS ON CITY STREETS
The stimulating effect that brisk September weather has had on the city's population is evident from this photograph. Taken on Market street today. The central retail district is crowded with feminine buyers, and the keener edge imparted to the atmosphere has been like a tonic to business in general.

Photo by Ledger Photo Patrol.

SON AND DAUGHTER HAVE AGED FATHER'S BELONGINGS THROWN IN STREET
"House divided against itself" at 1016 Moyamensing avenue, which John Smollock, 76 years old, has been dispossessed of by two of his children, who claim the property was bequeathed to them by their mother. The case has caused a stir in the neighborhood.